- (ii) This package addresses the benefits and assistance extended to Council Employees who are seeking Early Retirement or may be obliged to seek Assisted Retirement. Council particularly seeks to assist in preserving the dignity of staff for which circumstances oblige them to seek Assisted Retirement.
- (iii) Council gives the commitment to take a compassionate view on a case-by-case basis, in order to determine any other assistance Council may be in a position to offer the Employees who access the provisions of this policy.
- (iv) This policy does not address Redundancy or Retrenchment conditions and benefits that come into effect in the event the Council must reduce the number of positions and employees. These conditions and benefits are detailed in clause xx.

(b) Definitions

(i) Retirement

Leaving Council's employment and/or the workforce permanently.

(ii) Early Retirement

Early Retirement is retirement by an employee who has not yet reached the age where they qualify for an Australian Government Age Pension.

At present the current Centrelink ruling is as follows;

If you are a man, you qualify for Age Pension at age 65 years or over. If you are a woman, it depends on your date of birth. The minimum age for women to get the Age Pension began to increase from 1 July 1995 and will continue to increase until it reaches 65 by the year 2013, making it the same for everyone. Until then, your qualifying age depends on your date of birth.

Qualifying Ages for Age Pension for Women

Date of Birth	Qualification Age
Before 1 July 1935	60
1 July 1935 to 31 December 1936	60.5
1 January 1937 to 30 June 1938	61
1 July 1938 to 31 December 1939	61.5
1 January 1940 to 30 June 1941	62
1 July 1941 to 31 December 1942	62.5
1 January 1943 to 30 June 1944	63
1 July 1944 to 31 December 1945	63.5
1 January 1946 to 30 June 1947	64
1 July 1947 to 31 December 1948	64.5
1 January 1949 and later	65

Qualifying for the Age Pension can be affected if you are receiving other pensions.

(iii) Assisted Retirement

Assisted Retirement is retirement by an employee whose retirement has been brought on by unforeseen circumstances. Thus requiring the assistance available to the employee under this package.

Assisted Retirements are not voluntary or involuntary redundancies, and are not eligible for Council's Enterprise Bargaining Agreement Redundancy Package benefits.

Such retirements may be early retirement or retirement after the qualifying age for an Age Pension.

(iv) Unforeseen circumstances

Unforeseen circumstances in the terms of this policy are those, which lead to an employee retiring at a time that is not preferred. These include:

- Failure of health or incapacity.
- The need to finish work to provide care for another person.
- Diminished work performance.

(v) Failure of Health or Incapacity

Employees may suffer a failure of health through illness or injury that prevents them from either:

- Attending work, or
- Performing full normal duties

If the failure of health has been caused by a work related illness or injury, normal workers compensation procedures must be followed in accordance with the current Queensland legislation regarding Workers Compensation and Rehabilitation.

This failure of health may be permanent or temporary. If the failure of health is temporary, the procedures detailed in Council's Rehabilitation Policy must be initiated. Council's preference is to achieve a return to full normal duties for employees with a temporary failure of health.

This definition does not replace the definitions or determinations of "Failure of Health", "Total and Permanent Disablement" or "Total and Permanent Injury" used by other organisations, such as the Local Government Superannuation Scheme, Local Government Workcare and Centrelink.

(vi) Diminished Work Performance

A case of Diminished Work Performance exists when an employee's work performance is consistently below the defined standard. Diminished work performance is not misconduct.

Pursuing Assisted Retirement Benefits for diminished work performance can only occur when:

Both the Employee and the Supervisor agree that leaving Council's employment is appropriate for the Employee, and

There is no suitable alternative position available to which the Employee and the Council agree the Employee can be redeployed to.

The following three factors must be addressed before a Supervisor or Director can recommend to an employee that s/he consider taking Assisted Retirement for Diminished work performance:

Before concluding that a case of diminished work performance exists, a supervisor must evaluate the possibility that the diminished work performance is a result of physical or mental impairment in which case the problem should be managed under Council's Rehabilitation Policy. Guidance and assistance in the evaluation is available from Council's qualified Workplace Rehabilitation Coordinators.

Normal performance management processes have been followed, and the Supervisor has documented evidence of previous discussions about diminished work performance with the Employee, and the Supervisor and Director have concerns about the prospect of a return to competent performance.

Any opportunities for redeployment within Council must be identified and discussed with the Employee in the same meeting in which the option of Assisted Retirement is raised and discussed with the Employee.
