3.2 Grievance and dispute settling procedure

The matters to be dealt with in this procedure shall include all grievances or disputes between an employee and an employer in respect to any industrial matter and all other matters that the parties agree on and are specified herein. Such procedures shall apply to a single employee or to any number of employees.

- 3.2.1 In the event of an employee having a grievance or dispute the employee shall in the first instance attempt to resolve the matter with the immediate supervisor, who shall respond to such request as soon as reasonably practicable under the circumstances. - 3.2.9 Any order or decision of the Commission (subject to the parties' right of appeal under the Act) will be final and binding on all parties to the dispute.
- 3.2.10 Discussions at any stage of the procedure shall not be unreasonably delayed by any party, subject to acceptance that some matters may be of such complexity or importance that it may take a reasonable period of time for the appropriate response to be made. If genuine discussions are unreasonably delayed or hindered, it shall be open to any party to give notification of the dispute in accordance with the provisions of the Act.

Classification	Award rate per week $

Furnishing tradesperson level 1	741.50

NOTE: The rates of pay in this Award are intended to include the arbitrated wage adjustment payable under the 1 September 2013 Declaration of General Ruling and earlier Safety Net Adjustments and arbitrated wage adjustments. This arbitrated wage adjustment may be offset against any equivalent amount in rates of pay received by employees whose wages and conditions of employment are regulated by this Award which are above the wage rates prescribed in the Award. Such payments include wages payable pursuant to certified agreements, currently operating enterprise flexibility agreements, award amendments to give effect to enterprise agreements and overaward arrangements. Absorption which is contrary to the terms of an agreement is not required.

Increases made under previous State Wage Cases or under the current Statement of Principles, excepting those resulting from enterprise agreements, are not to be used to offset arbitrated wage adjustments.

5.1.2 Junior workers

(a) The minimum weekly wage rates for junior workers will be the appropriate percentage of the production employee level 3 total wage rate:

18 and under 19 years of age	65

(b) Proportion of junior workers

- (i) The proportion of juniors employed in any one department of a shop or factory will not exceed 3 to every one senior employee:

5.2 Career path progression and classification criteria

5.2.1 Career path progression

The objective of clause 5.2 is to establish a generic framework of wages and conditions for new and existing employees based on the recognition of relevant industry skills and experience, responsibility and/or possession of qualifications.

Implicit in career path progression is the existence of a suitable vacancy to which the employee can be appointed or successfully apply for promotion and that progression is based on work performance rather than tenure.

As a matter of principle, the employer is committed to promotion on the basis of merit that is consistent with equal employment opportunity and affirmative action requirements.

Professional development is not compulsory and will be undertaken in either the employee's or employer's time depending on the circumstances. This is to promote a culture of learning in line with the employer's commitment to training that may utilise nationally accredited qualifications. Specific in-house training programmes that are compulsory, for example, induction training, supervisory training and instruction for specialised processes would be undertaken in the employer's time.

To progress to a higher classification level, an employee must be able to demonstrate a competent level of work performance for that classification level. Award classification levels may also be supplemented by employer performance management programmes outlined in staff induction manuals, staff handbooks or other like documents that shall be adhered to at all times.

5.2.2 Classification criteria

The employer shall determine an employee's classification relevant to a particular Wage Level in the Award through the following process:

- (a) An analysis is to be undertaken to establish the requisite skills and responsibilities for each identified position and a position description written for each position;
- (b) Each position is classified by reference to the classification criteria contained in this Award; and
- (c) Employees are notified in writing of their appointment to a position consistent with the requirements outlined in clause 4.1 to this Award.

Classification criteria are guidelines to determine the appropriate classification level under the Award and consist of:

- (i) Relativities for each Wage Level;
- (ii) Isolated characteristics that should not be used to justify the classification of a position;
- (iii) Broad industry titles or callings, common industry-used titles and/or historical Award classifications;
- (iv) Indicative duties that represent where the majority of the employees duties are located (i.e. it is not mandatory that an employee performs every duty in a wage level and where it is acknowledged that some duties are only relevant for certain sectors of the furnishing industry);
- (v) Indicative experience and/or qualifications; and
- (vi) Indicative levels of responsibility.

The characteristics nominated above are the principal guide to classification to a particular wage level as they are designed to indicate the level of basic knowledge, comprehension of issues, procedures required, and the level of autonomy, accountability, supervision and/or training involved with the position.

The characteristics of a wage level must be read as a whole to gain an understanding of the position and the performance requirement. Isolated characteristics should not be used to justify the classification of a position.

The key issue to be analysed in properly classifying an employee is the level of initiative, responsibility/accountability, competency and skill that an employee is required to exercise in performing the employee's work within the parameters of the characteristics of the position.

The attributes and skills for each wage level are indicative of those required for each wage level. They are by no means an exhaustive list of the skills, attributes, duties or tasks included in each position within each wage level and employees may be expected to carry out additional duties or tasks as requested, which require skills that are not listed.

It should be noted that some typical duties/skills appear at one wage level only while others appear at more than one wage level. Because of this, the classification or re-classification of a position needs to be done by reference to the specific characteristics of the wage level. As an example, because an employee may be utilising a skill comprehended at a higher wage level than that which the employee has been appointed, the employee assumes the level of qualification, initiative, accountability and competence envisaged by the characteristics of the higher wage level irrespective of whether the employee holds formal qualifications specified for that higher wage level.

Payment for skills required in a particular position and used on a regular basis and not skills/qualifications possessed is an acknowledgement that some employees are over-qualified for the position they will be engaged in.

All employees will be required as necessary, in addition to their own task, to carry out tasks and responsibilities of employees at lower wage levels. All employees are required to observe the relevant legislative requirements as it applies to their position (and the employer's interpretation of the Acts that may be outlined in the employer's policy and procedure manuals). The ability to provide excellent customer service, where the customer may be external or internal, underpins all wage levels.

Where it is established that a particular set of tasks or callings are not clearly classified in this Award, the parties to the Award will meet to discuss the appropriate wage level and pay rates. Any dispute arising from this shall be followed in accordance with clause 3.2.

It is recognised that the accreditation and recognition process associated with qualifications will change over time and that many employees may possess overseas or interstate qualifications. It is agreed that the parties to this Award may require assistance from external bodies such as the Department of Employment and Training and Education and/or the relevant Industry Training Advisory Body and/or Centres of Excellence recognised within the Vocational Education, Training and Employment Act 2000 or its successor for assistance. Thereafter a simple exchange of letters between the major respondents to the Award shall form the base for classifying and recognising particular qualifications. This information may then be passed to the relevant enforcement agency, such as the Department of Justice and Attorney-General:

Provided further that no employee shall be disadvantaged in their average ordinary earnings as the result of the introduction of this classification structure.
